THE "GOLD CASE."

ACQUITTAL OF EX-GOV. WILLIAM SMITH, OF VIRGINIA.

A Test Case, in which the United States Government is Busted—A New Trial Asked For.

RICHMOND, May 23.—In the United States Circuit Court to-day the jury in the "Gold Case" of the United States vs. ex-Governor William Smith rendered a verdict for the defendant. This being considered as a test case, it is probable that the other suits (about a dozen in number) will be dismissed. District Attorney Lewis has entered a motion to set aside the verdict and to grant a new trial, which was filed for future hearing.

Congress.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—HOUSE.—After filibustering all night, during which time considerable pleasantries were indulged in, and some ill humor manifested at times, the House, at 9 o'clock this morning, adjourned to meet at noon.

The session of Saturday opened at noon with prayer by the chaplain. There was a very thin attendance of members. The legislative bill as originally presented, was signed by the Speaker and sent to the Senate for the signature of the presiding officer of that body.

Mr. Bicknell introduced a constitutional amendment to the election of President and Vice-President. Refer-

The House then took up as business of the morning hour the bill relating to the transfer of cases from State to Federal courts, the question being on seconding the main question. On that vote there was a division of 43 for and none against, and a call of the House ordered, which showed the presence of 185 members. A subsequent vote by yeas and nays on the motion to dispense with further proceedings in the case, and another abortive attempt to get a vote on seconding the previous question, occupied the entire morning hour.

The Post route bill was passed and the Warner silver bill was taken up and passed by a vote of 114 to 97. The following is a summary of its provisions: It fixes the weight of the standard silver dollar at 412 grains, and the owners of silver bullion to deposit the same at any mint to be formed into bars or standard dollars, makes the charge for coining such bullion the difference between the market value of New York and legal tender value of the coin; makes subsidiary silver coin exchangeable at the Treasury for legal tender money to the amount of $20; makes standard silver dollars legal tender in all payments at their nominal value; authorizes the Treasury to pay out silver coin without discrimination, the same as gold coin, in liquidation of all kinds of coin obligations against the government; authorizes the issue of certificates to depositors of gold or silver coin, and to the public, in exchange for issue of certificates representing coin in treasury in payment of interest on the public debt, both classes of certificates to be receivable in payment of debts on interest certificates for bullion due are to be paid in gold or silver market value in coin or like metal during the preceding week in New York and San Francisco. Gold and silver coin to be paid in gold or silver in the full capacity of mints in connection with other coinage, and if the bullion deposited for coining does not amount to twenty million dollars per month, the treasury is to purchase sufficient silver bullion to coin that amount.

The act is not to be construed as authorizing the coining of silver except into standard dollars.

The House adjourned until Tuesday.

Prosecuting Bank Directors.

LONDON, May 24.—The government has ordered the prosecution of the directors of the West of England and South Wales Bank at Bristol, on the charges that they were guilty of misrepresentations in their annual reports.

Transvaal Disturbed.

London, May 24.—A despatch to the Daily Standard states: "Maitland, May 10th, says: 'Sir' Bartle Frere has telegraphed asking that a battery of artillery be dispatched to the Transvaal to overawe the Boers. Fever and dysentery prevail in Colonel Credock's division. Colonel Pearson is sick.'

Its Make-up Admireable.

Raleigh Evening Visitor.

The Daily News of this city is in many respects a superior sheet, especially in so far as relates to current topics of the day. Its make-up is admirable.

Let no Guilty Man Escape.

Warren News.

We are of those who doubt the propriety of hanging for any crime less than murder; but so long as the law stands we are in favor of its enforcement to the letter. Let no guilty man escape. Let us make examples but let the examples be every single evildoer who is clearly guilty.

A Bad Returning Board.

Tarboro Southerner.

A. W. Arrington, a gloriously good fellow, Tom Mount, wanted to make Tom Bowers, a half-gifted goat, feel also gloriously good. So when the Bishop preached at Rocky Mount a few days ago he set by Tom.

After while the inevitable contribution plate came around. Al handed Tom (who had never in all his life handled so much money at one time) his 50 cents to put in. Tom quietly pocketed it. When he went out he observed:

"Clay, fore God, bin goin' to preach in all my life an' it's de' fast time dey ever paid me."

Relics of the Olden Time.

Charlotte Observer.

Dr. C. L. Hunter, of Lincoln, was, of course, at the 20th of May celebration, and with him brought some relics which were suggestive of the earliest history of the country, some of which were then celebrating. One of these was a piece chipped from what is known as Cornwallis' table. This table is a large flat rock situated four miles beyond the river, in Lincoln county, and on this rock Cornwallis, in 1781, while he remained there waiting for the waters of the river to fall. The incident is well authenticated and the rock has ever since been known as Cornwallis' table.

The other relic was a piece of an old Indian arrow which Dr. Hunter visited the site of the old Polk home, near Pineville, in this county, in the hope of finding some relic of the old house.

Another vestige of the old house is gone; not a brick remains, but the foundation is still there.

CONGRESS.

When the President returns the legislative bill to the House Monday or Tuesday with his veto, Congress will be exactly where it started ten weeks ago when the extra session convened. That nothing has been accomplished is not the fault of the Democratic party in Congress. That the purpose for which the extra session was called has thus failed and will ultimately fail is the fault of the Republican party and a Republican President. Controlled by political considerations the President has interposed the veto power of the Government and stopped the wheels of legislation. This he has a right to do. Congress is but a part of the legislative power. The veto power is unqualifiedly vested in the President by the constitution, and none can establish a standard of either intelligence or fidelity for its exercise. When a bill is vetoed Congress must respect the Executive authority just as it claims respect for its own authority. This is sound Democratic doctrine, if we have read aright the traditions and principles of that grand old party of tolerance and freedom.

The law authorizing the presence of soldiers at the polls cannot be repealed without the assent of the President. In his message vetoing the army bill he insists upon the right to summon the army for this illegal and revolutionary purpose. Congress can abolish the army, but not without the assent of the President. The army can be disbanded in this way without the assent of the President. Can this be done in safety to our frontier? That is the question for Congress to determine.

Congress can repeal the iniquitous jurors' test-oath, but not without the assent of the President.

Federal supervisors and marshals can arrest voters without process of law under the election law as it now stands, but Congress cannot repeal this infamous law without the assent of the President. That will not consent is very certain.

By withholding appropriations this Congress can destroy the Government itself, but it cannot repeat the simplest law without the assent of the President.

It is well enough to look at things dispassionately. Congress must be right in the right way, and the madmen who infest both parties, might as well understand thisat once.

IMMORTALITY, in the sense of fame, is to be achieved in various ways. Alexander, Hannibal and Caesar obtained it by Peabody by his philanthropy, and Harvey, Priestly and Jenner by their discoveries in physics. Sam Patch obtained the fadest laurel of fame by jumping from a bridge at Genesee Falls, of all methods of acquiring immortality Mr. Patch hit upon the easiest and cheapest, and hence the frequency with which men who have no mental or moral claims to immortality imitate his example. The last of these is one Steve Pierre, a Canadian, who leaped the other day from the new suspension bridge at Niagara Falls. He had so arranged a wire— we cannot understand how—that he fell perpendicularly into the river and was fished out again unharmed. So pleased was he with his success that he hopes to repeat the performance again in July. This is rather a remote date. Why not try it again at once and keep on trying it until he has either succeeded in showing that there is no danger in it, or in breaking his neck, and removing a silly fool from a world he has no particular business in?

Why the Republicans Want an Early Adjournment. Cor. Richmond Dispatch, 21st.

The Republicans now want an early adjournment because they do not want Proctor Knott to get before Congress that report from the Judiciary Committee on the President's impeachment. He can only make this report when the Judiciary Committee is called in its proper turn, and the sooner Congress adjourns the fewer the chances of this report being made. Mr. Knott is a forcible writer, and his paper is not likely to be easily suppressed. The "National Triumphant" was published in Greensboro during the war (1863-64), in Confederate times and Confederate style.

MEN OF OUR TIME.

SKETCHES OF TWO NOTED NORTH CAROLINIANS.

An Author who has written for the Interests of his Native State—Calvin H. Wiley.

From the Living Writers of the South.

The Rev. Mr. Wiley is the man to whom the cause of common school education in his own State is the most deeply indebted. Nor has his influence been confined to his own State, but the South has felt it; nor is it confined to common school education, but extends to education in general, and to literature itself.

Mr. Wiley was born in Guilford county, on the 3d of February, 1819, and graduated at the University of that State, located at Chapel Hill, in 1840. While at the University he studied law, and obtained his license to practice soon after graduation.

In 1850 he was elected to the State Legislature, and again in 1852. At the ensuing session (1852-53) the office of State Superintendent of Common Schools was created and he was elected to it by the Legislature.

The Russian government seems for the moment destined to be the chief author of the civil war, which has been suspended, as far as I am concerned, in the great cities in a state of siege, and whole populations are, as it were, imprisoned.

In St. Petersburg the absurd order directing that a porter should be present at every hotel, was issued to prevent any further forbidding internal movement without permits, and another directing all citizens to be at home by 9 o'clock.

The city wears the aspect of a great camp which expects, on the streets of which the porter-service of the inhabitants shrinking into their houses, the soldiers under arms and ready for immediate action. The revolutionary committee, it is stated by German witnesses, still issues its placards, still proclaims the general decrees of the general Diet, and the whole administration, as associate editor, with several journals and has published a number of pamphlets.

He was instrumental in establishing an imaginary plan of insurrection, and the press of the entire State accepted its approach in equally terrible language.

So different was this system that the schools were kept in regular operation throughout the entire war of four years, a fact, I believe, no other Southern State can boast.

In 1856 he was licensed to preach by the magistrates.

Under the leadership of Gaston and Noah, the Federalists, as they were then known, defeated it by overwhelming odds, and Blackledge, the author of the "American," and in the succeeding election a Republican (Democratic) legislature was elected.

Blackledge, of course, was denounced as a demagogue. John H. Wheeler was re-elected to the House, being one of the few voting against Blackledge's bill, that escaped the political guillotine.

In a room in the old Yards Hotel, along with several others, in 1857, young Wheeler was licensed to the law.

In 1858 he was a candidate for Congress in the Union district and was defeated by W. B. Shepard.

In 1859 he was appointed by President Jackson a member of the Board of Commissioners for the adjudication of claims growing out of the "Treaty of 1832," and in 1860 he was appointed Superintendent of Mills at Charlotte, N. C.

In the political revolution of 1861 he shared the fate of the Democratic party.

He resigned the directorship of the mint and returned to his valley farm on the Catawba in Lincoln county.

In 1862 he was elected Treasurer of the State by the Legislature.

At the expiration of two years of honorable service in that capacity he again retired to his farm, and at the suggestion of ex-Gov. Swain, then President of the University, began the historical labor of "Wheeler's History of North Carolina."

How well this work was done is shown by a letter from Gov. Swain, which the writer has selected from among numerous extracts of the press of the author.

"Not long ago I read in the

A fiddle and banjo furnished the inspiration for half a dozen dusky men and maidens at the Royal Alhambra palace on Exchange place to display their grace of action in an old fashioned break-down last evening.

—The Mayor had the police notify the different saloon-keepers last evening to "shut shop" at midnight and keep shut until 12 o'clock to-night. Violations of this order will cause special invitations to be issued for a "mattie Monday" morning.

The Times is the name of a paper published in Philadelphia, in the interest of the different trades and laboring class of the United States. Nicely gotten up and subscription 25 cents for three months. Money left with J. O. born for subscription will be promptly forwarded for the paper.

100,000 Attention!

Another W. R. Dapper died last night about 11 o'clock. The order is hereby requested to meet at their hall at three o'clock p. m., Monday. Funeral services will take place at the Edenton Street M. E. Church.

Death of W. R. Pepper.

Mr. W. R. Pepper, died at his residence in this city last evening about 11 o'clock. The Masonic and Odd Fellows, of which he was a member, will attend his funeral to-morrow afternoon.

Sanford's Algebra.

The Board of Education has recommended this book as a text book for the schools throughout the State. It is equal to the most popular text book.

Samuel H. Morris, University of Georgia, is the author, and the work is a home production that can be relied on for its clearness of definition, frequency and thoroughness of analysis.

Mr. Martin V. Calvin, of Augusta, Ga., is the general agent and Mr. John W. Denmark is the State agent.

Complimentary.

The Refugee Times says: "Mr. P. F. Pescud is at the Lorraine. He is State representative of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States. Everybody ought to know Mr. Pescud if they don't, for he is one of the very best men, has the love and regard of every man, woman and child in Raleigh, and has been with the leading insurance companies for many years."

The Lucy Laces.

Messrs. Yeargan, Petty & Jones make an addition to their local advertisement in this morning's paper. They make a specialty of Hambur and Nantucket designs and are at this time the largest stock of these goods in the State. The ladies of Raleigh appreciate the advantages offered by this house and are bestowing a very liberal patronage on them, particularly in this line. One lady has sold a great deal and as she worth at one time and several have purchased from $50 to $60 worth. It is quite evident that this house leads in the English trade of the city.

Mr. Yeargan stated to the reporter the other day that he had sold a paper, just one week, the house had an unusual run on these goods and the ladies seem well pleased both as to quality and price. One of the most fashionable ladies in the city remarked it was a real treat to buy genuine laces in Raleigh, and at such low prices.

Upon God's throne there is a seat for me.

Cotton Hosiery.

Brewster is selling the best cotton hosiery in the world, "the Remington." Call and get bottom prices on all goods in the hardware line. Paints, oil, varnish, wagon and buggy materials, sash, doors and blinds.

Y. M. of T.

There will be a called meeting of the Y. M. of T. on Monday night, the 27th, at 8 o'clock. Every member is earnestly requested to attend promptly. By order of W. M.

The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company.

It pursues its course. It affords its members, by the old time maxims of economy, integrity and prudence, insurance at the lowest cost. It offers to all who want to protect their dependents a policy whose claim by the law of the land is as good as the Mass. without considerable degree of risk; it is the only remedy I have yet found to suit my case; want to continue its use until a cure is effected if possible. Send word of the enclosed P. O. order immediately.
